

MORNING APPEAL.

FRIDAY..... JANUARY 31

* MUST HAVE A NEW ROUTE.

It must be apparent to the C. P. management by this time that it made a great mistake in the selection of its present route.

Ever since the road was built the elements have conspired to destroy it, and this Winter it has temporarily wiped it from existence. The power of man and the most elaborate combinations of his handiwork seem powerless to contend against the tremendous forces of nature. Steam and steel are of no avail against wind and snow, and this fact is becoming more and more apparent every year.

The old route proposed years ago was by way of Carson and Lake Tahoe over by Placerville, and had it been built it would have given the road a line over the mountains below the worst part of the storm belt.

The amount of money spent for snow sheds, delayed trains, loss of business, etc., would have built the other line and equipped it with rolling stock.

IN A BAD FIX.

Many Miners in the Mountains Supposed to be Dead.

The terrible storm has so completely filled the mountains with snow and ice that it is quite probable that many miners who have made it a custom to live the Winter through in their log cabins, either perished a week ago or are living on almost nothing.

Even if they have plenty of rations to last them a season, the intense cold will have been their worst enemy.

In the California mountains near the Summit, parties have already found miners in a dead and dying condition. Near Oroville several squads have been sent into the passes and canyons known to be the Winter resorts of various miners and found them in a precarious condition.

If there are any mountaineers within the help of this section, something ought to be done to discover their condition.

Along the line of the C. P. men have been found almost frozen who have undertaken to walk from one town to another.

Mail carriers find it almost impossible to attend to their business, and the thaw which recently set in has made the snow very slushy.

If there is no change in the weather which just set in there is a probability of considerable work being accomplished, and still a good show for people who may be isolated.

Fell Five Stories.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Jan. 29.—While working on a new building on Amity street today, James McCraddy, a carpenter, fell from the fifth story to the ground. His fellow workmen ran to him, expecting to find him either dead or dying, and were astonished as well as pleased to find that the only injury the man sustained from his fall of about fifty feet was a sprained ankle.

Tax Bill Passed.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—In the Senate Tuesday, on motion of Merrill, the bill to credit and pay to the several States and Territories and the District of Columbia all monies collected under the direct tax of 1861, was taken from the calendar, and after some discussion was passed by a large vote.

On the introduction of boots into New Zealand the vanity of the natives was so great that when one of them was fortunate enough to become possessor of a pair and found that they were too small, he would not hesitate to cut off a toe or two, staunching the bleeding by covering the stump with a little hemp, and then force the foot into the boots.

On Tuesday, Lucia Zaritha, the Mexican midget, the smallest human being in the world, died of gastric fever at Truckee where she had been snow bound for several days. She was 23 years of age and weighed four and a half pounds.
